IS NONPARTISAN BILL

Party Lines Are Lowered in Consideration of Country's Tax Measure

Washington—The conferees of the house and senate have done about what was expected in agreeing to a revenue measure reducing by $351,000,000 the present tax bill of the nation.

And the very sections which the senate put into the measure and which the house had eliminated from consideration were taken out so that the final law more nearly approximates the wishes of President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon, in fact also the desires of the Harding-Mellon administration, than any tax measure asked of congress in six years.

Congress has at last showed toward the treasury experts a confidence in facts and figures, if not always in theories, which will mean that the pathway of tax reform will be easier next time.

The contest between the house and senate has not been a serious one. The provisions which were restored to the bill and which had been vitally amended in the senate were after all simply the expression of individual opinion and did not represent either a party movement or a class effort.

SEE EASY PASSAGE
The record was made by individuals and now the measure comes back from conference as an all-or-none proposition it would not be surprising if the conference report went through the senate by more than 80 votes out of 96.

It is in virtually every sense a non-partisan bill. The leadership of Senator Smoot, Republican, who accepted the important suggestions offered by Senator Simmons, Democrat, has not only saved the bill but has prevented serious delay.

Little time will be lost by the president in signing the measure which may become law about Thursday or next week thus establishing a record in major legislation which is unparalleled in recent years. Naturally the Republicans will take credit for the performance as they are in the majority and their ranks have stood fairly solid in both the house and the senate. But the Democrats will not hesitate to claim credit, too, in the fall elections.

FEW ADVERSE VOTES

Certainly no one who votes against the tax bill and is up for reelection this year will have a comfortable time of it whether he is a Republican or Democrat for the measure is conceded to be one of the best pieces of compromise legislation that congress has worked out since the income tax was first made constitutional.

The administration is pleased. There are rumors that Secretary Mellon now will retire having done the biggest job of his career but it is hardly believed the president will permit him to leave if persuasion can be of any avail. Mr. Mellon has not indicated his desires to anybody and the official community here would regret to see him leave to say nothing of course of the financial and banking interests of the country who regard him so highly.

The aluminum case may make a difference in his plans. He may feel that continuance in the cabinet only means more bombardment of President Coolidge. Mr. Mellon would never retire if there were the slightest implication that he was taking the comments of political opponents seriously. But as soon as the aluminum controversy is over and the decks are clear he might feel differently. There will be the greatest pressure exerted, however, to cause him to stay.

NUNS SEE WORLD FOR FIRST TIME IN 40 YEARS

Mexico City — (AP) — Some of the nuns from isolated convents closed by the government have appeared in the streets for the first time in 40 years. They literally entered a new world and appeared amazed and mystified at the changes they saw. Never before had they seen automobiles or street cars. They appeared to be rather helpless.

They also were confused over the changes in the style of frocks and bonnets during their 40 years of seclusion and it was only with the assistance of lay friends that they were able to purchase wearing apparel.

PIPE IN STREET CAR BURSTS AND PIERCES WOMAN

Chicago — (AP) — Mrs. Adeline Slack, 24, was seriously injured early Monday when an air pipe running beneath the flooring of a street car on which she was riding suddenly burst, a section of the pipe being thrust through her body from hip to hip.

With one end of the pipe held fast in the woodwork of the street car seat, the woman, conscious and suffering, was held prisoner until a fire department squad severed the pipe with an acetylene torch. Mrs. Slack was taken to a hospital and specialists summoned to devise means of removing the pipe from her body.

WORLD COURT IS ATTACKED BY SENATORS

Reed and Borah Deliver First of Series of Addresses at Chicago

Chicago — (AP) — Two senatorial opponents of America's adherence to the World court—one a Democrat and the other a Republican—have launched their opening broadsides here against that measure, senators who have supported it and methods by which the issue was brought to a vote in the senate.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, addressing a Washington birthday gathering of Knights of Columbus Sunday night, pleaded for the defeat of "every man who voted for this iniquitous measure" and then moved on to East St. Louis, where he spoke again Monday night.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who arrived in Chicago shortly after the Missouri Senator, and participated in his honor, attacked the world court in a radio speech planned for Monday afternoon at the coliseum and Monday evening at a political gathering. "The greatest influence in the world for peace and good is the uncontracted, unembarrassed independence of the American government," he asserted.

The invasion of Illinois by the anti-world court senate leaders occurred as the Republican primary campaign between William R. McKinley and Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Republican state committee, is in full swing. Smith has made Senator McKinley's vote for the world court an outstanding issue between them.

TO VISIT WISCONSIN

Illinois is the first large state where a pro-world court senator is up for re-election today with the primary set for April 13. From Illinois Senator Borah will go into Wisconsin for two speeches in the state of Senator Lenroot, Republican leader of the administration forces for the world court, who likewise is up for re-election.

Each senator referred to the invoking of the cloture rule when the world court issue was before the senate. "I appeal from the 'gag' rule in the senate to the 'ungagged' judgment and voice of the American people," said Senator Reed while the Idaho Senator asserted he was "here to continue the debate which was shut off in the senate by the voting of cloture."

GREAT LAKES SHIPPING COMPANIES FORM MERGER

Montreal, Que. — (AP) — A merger of the Canada Steamship lines and the Great Lakes Transportation company has been arranged after negotiations at Cleveland, it was announced Monday.

The Great Lakes Co. has accepted an offer from the Canada Steamship lines and will become an integral part of that organization.

The two companies have been strong competitors for traffic on the Great Lakes.

FEARING PUNISHMENT, PRISONERS KILL SELVES

Shanghai — (AP) — Following the attempted jail break, in which 100 Chinese prisoners attempted to escape from the French municipal jail last Friday, four of the injured survivors committed suicide fearing punishment, it was disclosed Monday. Five convicts were killed and 11 wounded when the attempt was repulsed. Six of the wounded have since succumbed to their injuries.

LEAGUE AND COURT AREN'T SAFE—BORAH

Idaho Senator Says American People Must Save Policies of Washington

Chicago — (AP) — The American people and the American people alone can save the policies of Washington, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, declared here Monday at Memorial services on the anniversary of the birth of the father of his country.

Speaking to thousands in the Coliseum and to countless others listening in on the radio, the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee declared the first battle in the fight for American policies and American principles was lost with the vote of the senate for adherence to the world court.

The next fight—that to take the United States into the league of nations—is now being organized, he said.

"We will lose the next fight as we lost the last one," Senator Borah declared, "unless the great body of the people themselves take up the gage of the battle. It is up to you. You can save the policies of Washington and no one else can."

U. S. LEAGUE ADVISOR

Declaring this country now is committed to the league of nations in a most vital particular, Senator Borah said the United States now is now the advisor and counsellor of the league through membership in the legal department of the league.

"We refuse to join the league," Senator Borah continued, "but we accept membership in the tribunal which is a component part of the league, and whose business it is to counsel with the league on all matters."

"There is not a controversy in Europe, legal or political, involving a dynasty or an oil well, concerning which the council of the league may not call upon tribunal of which we are a member for advice. Our government is a member of that tribunal."

"Yet in the senate of the United States today they will solemnly read the farewell address of George Washington. If departed spirits could hold communion with men, I fancy the father of our country would say: 'This people honor me with their lips but their hearts are far from me.'"

"A tribunal whose judges are elected by the league" he continued "whose business it is to advise and counsel with the league, and whose judgments are enforced by the league is the tribunal which we have joined."

"I appeal from the 'gag' rule in the senate to the 'ungagged' judgment and voice of the American people," said Senator Reed while the Idaho Senator asserted he was "here to continue the debate which was shut off in the senate by the voting of cloture."

Senator Reed said he recommended for all senators who voted for the measure, "vigorous application of the maxim of Donnybrook Fair—'wherever you see a head, hit it.'"

COUNTRY HONORS FIRST PRESIDENT

Capital Joins With Remainder of Land to Observe Washington's Birthday

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — The capital joined with the remainder of the country Monday to honor the memory of George Washington.

Numbers of public ceremonies were arranged by patriotic organizations without regard for the recent controversy over the personal habits of the first president and the newer debate over how he would stand on the prohibition issue.

In congress time was set apart from legislative duties for the reading in both houses of Washington's farewell address and Monday night President Coolidge himself will deliver an address before the National Education association. The speech will be heard throughout the country over radio.

Sharing the center of the day's activities with the capital is the Mount Vernon home and tomb of Washington and the George Washington Masonic national memorial, now under construction near Arlington, Va.

ASK COUNSEL FOR ALUMINUM PROBE

Democratic Leaders Will Oppose Pressing of Direct
Senate Quiz

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Democratic leaders indicated Monday that they would ask for direct action by the senate to refer the case of the Aluminum Company of America to special counsel instead of pressing for a senate resolution for investigation to determine whether the company has violated court decrees.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, party floor leader, said he thought a case was made on the record of the federal trade commission and that it seemed useless to pile investigation upon investigation. Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who has prosecuted the senate inquiry into the action of the department of justice in investigating the Mellon controlled company said the plan, outlined by Senator Robinson would meet his approval.

The course to be sought, Senator Walsh said, would be similar to that followed in the Teapot dome case where the president was directed to employ special counsel to "take such action civil or criminal" as the facts might warrant.

The Montana senator said three courses would be open to special counsel, contempt proceedings for violation of the decree; proceedings to broaden the decree entered in 1912, and criminal action under the Sherman act on charges that the company has sought to strengthen its alleged monopoly.

Administration senators will oppose appointment of special counsel equally as strenuously as they have opposed a special senate investigation.

COOLIDGE RECOVERS FROM SLIGHT COLD

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — President Coolidge was back at his desk Monday practically recovered from the cold which laid him up for several days last week.

Although the government departments were closed for Washington's birthday, the president went to his office at the usual hour and immediately plunged into consideration of business that had accumulated during his absence. His only engagement for the day was a conference with Secretary Mellon on treasury department problems.

In preparation for his address Monday night before the department of superintendence of the National Education Association, the president, before going to his office, motored to the office of Dr. Charles W. Richardson, a throat and nose specialist, for treatment.

Middletown, N. Y. — (AP) — Seven bodies had been recovered at noon Monday from the ruins of Schindler's Prairie house, which was swept by fire early Monday morning. Because of the charred conditions of the bodies only two were identified. They were waiters employed at the hotel.

It was thought that two more bodies were in the ruins of the hotel. Twenty-three persons were under treatment at the Monticello hospital, six miles away. Hospital authorities said several might die.

GREEN WARNS TAX INCREASE IS PROBABLE

Raising of Revenue May Be Necessary at End of Year, He Believes

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — With a fight brewing in the house against the provision in the compromise revenue bill for a retractive cut in the inheritance tax, Chairman Green of the ways and means committee has warned that an increase in taxes may be necessary at the end of the year.

Nevertheless, the $387,000,000 tax reduction measure agreed to by conferees of the senate and house will be taken up Tuesday in the lower chamber with leaders confident of its prompt ratification.

Mr. Green, who headed the house conferees, declared Sunday night that if an increase is necessary "full responsibility rests with the senate."

The senate voted to repeal the inheritance tax and to make the retractive cut in this tax whereby the increased rates voted in 1924 would be eliminated in favor of the lower rates effective in the 1921 act.

House conferees obtained the restoration to the bill on the inheritance tax, but against the wishes of Mr. Green were forced to yield the retractive cut in this tax which will mean the eventual loss of $55,000,000 in revenue from taxes already assessed on estates during the period in which the increased rates were effective.

While Representative Newton, Republican, Minnesota, has given notice he will seek to have the bill sent back to conference with instructions that the provision be eliminated, house leaders confidently expect approval of the bill by Tuesday night. The senate then will act, with ratification expected within a day.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT IN CANADA, WIFE SAYS

Chicago — (AP) — Miriam Noel Wright, wife of Frank Lloyd Wright, whose divorce suit was started Saturday at Madison, Wis., said Sunday night that she believed her husband had left the country and is now somewhere in Canada.

She termed "absurd" the charges of Levi Bannock of Milwaukee made at the divorce hearing Saturday, that her bitter pen had ruined her husband financially. She termed the affair a "theatrical performance being played by his attorney in a bid for public sympathy."

The attorney had charged that Mrs. Wright had attacked her husband's character in letters to his friends, clients, bankers and creditors. Mrs. Wright said that the same man who was her client's life, had also threatened her.

"But I was not afraid," she said. "I am no coward who runs from danger."

STOP CITYWARD TREK OF YOUTH

Such Is Plea of Frank Lowden
Before National Education Association

Washington — (AP) — "If the cityward trek of the rural youth continues as rapidly as it has in the past five years, the next generation will witness a farm population largely composed of the physically and mentally unfit."

Frank O. Lowden, former Illinois governor, Monday told the National Educational association convention. Conditions of living on the farm must be equalized with city home conditions, Mr. Lowden declared, because the farm child and the farm housewife know all about city conveniences and normal boys and girls will not stay on the farm suffering from a double standard of living.

The rural school, which formed Mr. Lowden's theme, was in his day, he said, a center of genuine community life. Now, for the most part, it stands deserted on the hill top "with an appearance of decrepitude which is usually a melancholy memorial of better days."

A committee of the National Educational Association investigated agricultural conditions all over the country and Europe, said Mr. Lowden, and learned that where farmers organized themselves into cooperative marketing associations, there agriculture was in its best estate. So a committee was chosen to prepare a course of instruction for public schools to teach the spirit as well as the substance of the cooperative method in agriculture.

Cleveland, O. — (AP) — Hazel Cowles, 31, shot and killed her mother, Nancy, 50, in their home Monday and then turned the revolver upon herself and sent a bullet through her brain, both dying instantly.

Hazel had been released from a hospital here a week ago. She had been under observation for mental troubles for weeks, according to Constable Charles Hickox of Salon. The mother was slain as she stepped at her daughter's side in bed which they occupied together, Hickox said.

ARRESTS IN BOOTLEG CONSPIRACY REACH 42

Cleveland, O. — (AP) — Arrests in the nationwide alleged bootleg alcohol conspiracy under investigation by the federal grand jury here reached 42 with the surrender of Mike Athol, known in Duluth and Superior, Wis., as the "king of the bootleggers."

Athol was surrendered in St. Paul Saturday, it became known here Monday. His arrest is the fifth and last on warrants issued for Duluth suspects.

More than a score of warrants remained unserved. Treasury department intelligence agents have been assigned to assist other federal operatives in running down suspects and to serve subpoenas on scores of witnesses who have escaped the government's net.

Chicago — (AP) — The police tried Monday to unravel the causes of another Mafia slaying, that of Vito Bascone, 37, a wine dealer. Friends of the recently slain "scourge" Orazio Torpea, who in turn was held directly responsible for the death of Henry Spingola. Bascone also held the friendship of Tito Schlipa, operatic tenor, the police said. Himself a singer of ability, Bascone frequently attended the opera, and he liked to mingle among artists. Also, said the police, he conferred in the councils of the Mafia, where the deaths of enemies were plotted.

Bascone owned a home outside "Little Italy" and he was loved by his wife and three children. In his other life he knew Mrs. Nina O'Leary, an estranged wife, who collapsed over his body and wept bitterly.

Bascone's body, with several bullet wounds in the head, was found on the prairie outside Chicago Sunday.

DAUGHTER TURNS GUN ON MOTHER AND SELF

VERA ENTERS NEW YORK ON 10-DAY LEAVE

Countess Is Placed Under Personal Bond of $500
by Labor Department

BULLETIN

New York — (AP) — The Countess of Cathcart, by signing a personal bond of $500 for her release from Ellis Island Sunday night, "aided the babies corpus proceedings brought by her attorney, United States Attorney Buckner announced Monday. This action, Mr. Buckner said, placed the countess again under the jurisdiction of the department of labor."

New York — (AP) — The countess of Cathcart, after 11 days' detention from the United States because of her elopement with the Earl of Craven in 1922, was in New York Monday under a 10-day leave from the department of labor.

She was released unexpectedly from Ellis Island night under a $500 personal bond. Tuesday a federal court there will hear arguments on her habeas corpus proceeding admission over the ruling of the department of labor that she be excluded on grounds of "moral turpitude."

Theodore G. Risley, acting secretary of labor, after ordering her release, left Washington for New York.

The telegram authorizing the release said: "Amend previous order excluding Vera Cathcart to read: 'Excluding decision affirmed, but release temporarily for 10 days under her own personal bond—$500. Notify United States attorney at once of action taken.'"

The message arrived after ferry service had been discontinued but Commissioner of Immigration Curran ordered special service provided. She came ashore at 11:45 p. m. with three trunk.

"I have been praying for this for days," she remarked.

Immigration officials expressed ignorance of how the order came to be issued, especially so late at night. She was met at the pier by Mrs. Gordon Carr, a friend who has visited her nearly every day since she arrived Feb. 16 at Ellis Island. They went to the Hotel Ambassador.

The countess said she wanted to thank American women for their sympathy. Arthur Garfield Hays of her counsel will argue that her admission of elopement with the Earl of Craven does not constitute admission of a crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude under the laws of this the United States, England, France or South Africa.

United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner has not indicated what arguments he will advance for the government's case, but he wired to the department of labor for a specialist in immigration to come from Washington.

It develops that when she arrived from England, a board of three immigration inspectors asked: "Did you, while still married, have relations with the Earl?"

"I most certainly did," she replied.

REPORT ENGLISH GIRL

Boston — (AP) — Selina Chippendale, an English girl who had been detained several weeks at immigration headquarters here, was on her way to England Monday. Congressmen Address Conference and Brand Pro-

HOLD AMENDMENT FAILS

Edwards Calls Law Enforcement a "Despicable Mockery and Hypocrisy"

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — A new and concerted bombardment was directed at prohibition Monday and mingled with the fire of general criticism were demands for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment.

The guns were trained from the luncheon table set by the Association against the Prohibition Amendment for its second "face the facts" conference. The contention that six years of prohibition under the Volstead act has proved a failure provided the keynote of the meeting, coupled with the demand that light wine and beer be legalized.

Addressees by a number of persons prominent in and out of congress, supplied the ammunition for the onslaught on prohibition which they described as "immoral and indefensibly stupid," "despicable mockery and hypocrisy" and as making a "crime of what most people do not even regard as a sin."

DRY LAW IS STENCH

Describing himself "as one who has spent the better part of seven years of his life to bring about sanity and rationality in the matter of law enforcement," Senator E. Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, declared in an address that "the despicable mockery and hypocrisy" of prohibition enforcement has become a "stench in the nostrils of right living and right thinking people."

Representative Sosnowski, Republican, Michigan, told the conference that those who advocated prohibition seven years ago uniformly were sincere in their beliefs but they now faced a different set of facts and "do not feel the same about it today. They want the Volstead act modified, changed or repealed in order that its evils may end," he said.

The reason this country has prohibition, he said, "is because its citizens six years ago, accepted the prohibition theory as an antidote for a multitude of post war evils."

MUSIC SCHOOL BRINGS OPERA COMPANY HERE

Hinshaw Company Will Sing
"The Marriage of Figaro"
in College Chapel

Mozart's most popular opera, "The Marriage of Figaro," will be presented by William Wade Hinshaw under the auspices of Lawrence Conservatory of Music Tuesday evening March 9, at Lawrence Memorial chapel. The opera company is making a coast to coast tour. It includes an all star grand opera cast and chamber orchestra. Comedy for the opera is by Beaumarchais, the original Italian libretto by Da Ponte and the English version with dialogue by H. O. Osgood.

Members of the cast are: Mmes. Clytie Hine, Editha Fleischer and Oella Tarrill; Messrs. Alfredo Valenti, David Laddick, Ralph Brainerd and Herman Gehlhausen. Ernest Knack is the musical director. The opera has been given in almost every European country in many languages, although it has had comparatively few performances in America and almost none outside of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, where it always has been sung in Italian.

In London it has been given in English but there have been no performances in America in English by professional opera companies. Mr. Hinshaw recognized that given in English with spoken dialog it will be highly enjoyable for American audiences and he has had a new libretto made for it in English, witty up-to-date English with sparkling dialog and melodious singable lyrics. The opera thereby becomes a comedy with music, brilliant scintillating music—such as only Mozart can write.

WANTS TRAIN RIDE BUT GETS IN PATROL WAGON

Sam Cayerette, Clintonville, celebrated Washington's birthday in a cell at the city police station as the result of a prolonged drunk which caused him to become a traffic lawbreaker Sunday evening at the Appleton Junction station of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. As the courthouse was closed Monday, he will appear in municipal court Tuesday morning.

Cayerette boarded a train at Clintonville with Chicago as his destination but when he refused to pay his fare he was put off at the local junction. He became boisterous and the ticket agent, refused to sell him a ticket to Chicago, decided that a police ticket would be much better for him. Capt. P. J. Vaughn and Driver John Kulonen answered the agent's call and made the arrest at 8:30 Sunday evening.

She was brought into the room and the jury was recalled but she demanded a new trial on the grounds that she did not hear the verdict.

Miss Mealy was charged with passing forged checks at the Kamps and Spector jewelry stores here on Feb. 14.

WASHINGTON'S CHARACTER REVEALED

Not the famous hatchet of George Washington, but a dainty, white-handled penknife reveals better his character.

So says Dr. Paul F. Bloomhardt, professor of biography at Wittenberg College, Springfield, O.

Washington's father gave the hatchet, as even school children remember, to George in 1775, and George struck down a choice cherry tree in the orchard later he confessed, and promptly.

But the penknife was given to him by his mother. She was so pleased with the lad's behavior, that she gave him the bit of cutlery, cautioning the young man always to obey his superiors.

This knife he carried as a talisman. It was a part of his personal equipment as general of the Americans who fought for their liberties in the Revolutionary War.

At the lowest ebb of the Revolution with a weak Congress failing to provide even food for his half-clad men at Valley Forge, Washington once wrote out his resignation.

He struggled with himself. This was his greatest battle, says Dr. Bloomhardt, who studies and teaches the lives of great Americans.

General Knox came into the cabin which was general headquarters at the Valley and Washington showed him the resignation as written.

Knox was dumbfounded, and did not know what to do until his eye caught the glint of the penknife on General Washington's desk.

Knox knew his story, and without any utterance pushed the keersake under the clenched hands of General Washington.

Washington flushed.

Knox said, "You were always to obey your superiors. No one has commanded you to cease leading this army."

Within half an hour the resignation was tossed into the log fire, and the great Washington carried on.

The hatchet showed the truth-stuff of the boy; the penknife showed the stability of the man.

The knife should replace the hatchet, Dr. Bloomhardt says.

The knife is among the Washington relics in a Virginia Masonic lodge.

The conference will begin on June 23, and will last about a week. According to the Rev. E. V. Schlutier of Oshkosh, president of the division, it is quite certain that the invitation to come to Appleton will be accepted. About 250 delegates, and synod members will attend the conference.

Division meetings are held in alternate years, and the conferences of the entire synod are held in the intervening years. The Northern Wisconsin division includes northeastern Wisconsin, and the upper peninsula of Michigan, extending as far south as Fond du Lac. There are seven districts in the Wisconsin synod three of which are in this state.

FEW GAME FISH LOST IN SEINING FOR ROUGH FISH

Fisheries Expert Proves Seining Can Be Accomplished Without Destroying Good Fish

Not a single game fish was killed in a haul of rough fish made last week in Lake Poygan and the direction of R. J. Ruppel, assistant superintendent of fisheries. In the haul of about 20 tons, probably 10 per cent were game fish but the only deaths in this haul were of five white bass caught in the net but which had presumably died from attacks made by garfish before the haul. All five fish had sores on their sides, caused by fungus growth developing from the attacks.

The haul was conducted by the same crew of fishermen who were severely criticized following a haul made a few weeks ago and in which some white bass were killed. Mr. Ruppel did not superintend the first haul. He has maintained that rough fish may be taken out with the same nets without damage to the game fish and declared after this haul that he had proved his contention.

There were from 2000 to 4000 pounds of sheepshead about four times that amount of white bass and six times as many catfish taken in the haul. The haul was about 1000 feet long. Among the game fish there were a large number of sturgeon only three blue and about six black bass. The haul was made at a point opposite the mouth of the Wolf river on the south side of Lake Poygan. Seven miles from the village of Winnebago.

TEAR UP

Set out early in the week it took about three days to make ready to take in the seine and the first haul was started on Friday afternoon. Due to snagging of the net the haul could not be finished until Saturday morning and great holes were torn in the net allowing many fish to escape. The sale of the sheepshead brought some profit to the fishermen but this will not pay for the expenses of the haul and the mending of the net. Mr. Ruppel said:

No like lawyers or carp were taken and only a few bullheads which have a market value were in the net. The haul made this week in Lake Poygan was the first of the season. The men have hesitated in the past because of the criticism directed by the Isiah Walton league and the appeals to the governor for a ban on the use of seines. This has been the only instance where game fish have been killed except a few blue and black bass. Mr. Ruppel said and although they have been reports of the thousands of pounds of game fish being killed in these hauls there is no truth in them.

WANT C. C. HELP FOR POSTOFFICE

Illinois Towns Want Small Cities to Work Together to Put Pressure on Congress

Support of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in behalf of the proposed postoffice addition here has been asked by two sources. The Appleton postoffice association and organization of postal employees and chambers of commerce in three small cities in Illinois.

The local employees realize the cramped quarters of the Appleton building and are anxious to have an appropriation made for an addition. The Illinois cities referred to are Havana, Carrollton and Cairoville and are in need of postoffice buildings themselves. It is believed, and for that reason are asking for the cooperation of all the smaller towns that have asked for postoffice construction.

Two postoffice building bills are now before congress. The Busby bill which specifies the amounts that should go to the several cities and the Elliott bill which would appropriate a sum to be spent at the discretion of the treasury department.

If the latter bill is passed it is believed that Appleton will not receive its postoffice addition for at least five years and possibly longer. The Appleton Chamber of Commerce is informed by the Illinois cities that it is left to the discretion of the treasury department where the money is to be spent. It will probably be spent in the larger cities first. It is felt.

ITINERANT TEACHER PLAN IS A SUCCESS

Appleton is one of the cities of the Fox river valley trying to meet the increasing need for plumbing apprentices through the establishment of classes in the vocational school under the direction of an itinerant teacher. It is stated by Frank R. King, state plumbing engineer, in a pamphlet of statewide circulation.

Several Wisconsin cities are experimenting with this problem. Mr. King reports, and "the work is meeting with success beyond expectation" in some of the centers of instruction. Other cities in the Fox river valley holding the classes are Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay and Sheboygan. A similar plan is being considered by Racine, Madison and West Allis. A practical plumber gives instruction in vocational plumbing in Superior and Janesville.

U. S. Senator Wears Red Flannels To Keep Warm

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington (AP)—An it surprises me, observed a lobbyist, I know how old-fashioned congressmen are.

I never particularly noticed it myself. Gosh! yes, said the lobbyist, especially senators. The lower house isn't so bad. There are mostly younger men. I guess that accounts for it. But the Senate's full of old timers who can remember back to the Civil War and a lot of em stuck to the same old styles they wore then.

Would you believe it? continued the lobbyist. I sell suspenders to half a dozen senators. Say they can't keep their pants on with belts. There was a lot of joking about Magnus Johnson's suspenders. Gosh! he didn't but know! He isn't the only one by any manner o means. When he was out speech-making Magnus had a habit of peeling off his coat and vest. That's how he happened to get found out.

Put if you could look underneath the whole Senate's coats and vests I'll bet you'd find suspenders on 30 per cent.

Have you noticed, queried the lobbyist, how many senators wear those old style straight collars rolled over a bit at the corners and open in front to give their admirers free play?

They ain't been good styles since I been in the business but those old boys won't stand for nothing else. Why I saw a picture of Daniel Webster once that had on one of those collars and ties.

I got one customer, said the lobbyist, lowering his voice and glancing nervously over his shoulder to make sure he wasn't detected giving such confidential information away. A senator—that I have to get red flannel underwear for.

He could keep just as warm in something up to date but he won't.

WASHINGTON—THE LEADER

A hundred and seventy-eight years ago, in a little stone office in Clarke county, Virginia, a boy sat poring over the mysteries of a map.

Twenty years later a soldier passed there on his way to Cambridge, Mass.

The surveyor, the soldier was George Washington. He was on his way to take command of the Continental army.

An army? Rather a handful of colonists, arrayed against the military force of an empire. But what a war those soldiers fought!

The men who defeated the armies of an empire were led by a sense of oppression. But more than that. It takes more than an abstract sense of injustice to make a winning army. There must be a man among them who is greater than they, a man they can trust and confide in.

He must be the one ready to step out like a flash at the proper time and call them to battle and to death. He must inspire them. Mere sense of oppression doesn't do it.

Such a man was Washington. But possibly the greatest test of his leadership came, not on bloody fields, but at Valley Forge, where a miracle of brotherhood kept an army from disintegrating.

Valley Forge remains a miracle in the history of all wars, a miracle of unselfishness, of heroism, of brotherly love in the midst of conflict.

Roaring guns break a man's spirit, but it is harder for the guns than it is for stalking misery. And at Valley Forge there was none of the glory that comes with braving the guns. There was only starvation and a grim fight against an enemy that couldn't be shot at.

That was the hardest kind of a battle, and it took the greatest leadership. Washington was the man who gave it. Moving among the men like a brother he went through that terrible winter, cheering, consoling, comforting.

Fighting under such a man as that, how would you have felt at Yorktown? To see Washington standing there, straight as the surveyor's rod he used as a boy, and into his hands is passed the sword of a master tactician, the leader of an army of the empire. Would you have felt like cheering?

The old elm at Cambridge, under which Washington took command of the Continental army, is dead. But if you find yourself able to cheer such a man now, the spirit of the Continental army still lives.

TAX COLLECTION TWICE A YEAR

Whether the causes and responsibilities of high taxation in Wisconsin are agreed upon or not, there is general agreement that taxation is burdensome. There is one way in which the taxes could be made less burdensome irrespective of a change in the kinds and forms employed. The authorizing by state legislation of the semi-annual payment of taxes would afford this relief.

In the neighborhood of $100,000,000 of property taxes are levied in Wisconsin for all purposes annually. They are due and payable at one time. On top of these are the income taxes payable at the same time. These payments must be made in January, although in some instances, as in Appleton, extensions are granted for fifteen or thirty days. This is of no appreciable benefit to taxpayers. It may put off the evil day for a brief period, closely following the collection of these taxes, the first installment of federal taxes is due, so that the first three months of each year have become a hardship upon business and individuals.

It is universal experience in manufacturing and mercantile lines that collections are bad the first three months of the year, particularly the first two. Many corporations, and not a few individuals are compelled to borrow money at the banks for the payment of taxes. It is obvious that the payment in the aggregate of $50,000,000 of taxes in January and $50,000,000 in July would be less onerous than the payment of the entire $100,000,000 at one time. Furthermore, neither the state nor municipalities require their funds in a lump sum at one time. They do not need them any more than business requires its income at a single stroke. The federal government gets along with the collection of taxes four times a year and the state and local bodies could do the same. Finally, taxpayers have a legitimate claim upon their tax liabilities for a portion of the year in their own business.

Deferred payments, in the manner we have suggested, would facilitate all business, make money easier the first quarter of the year and would soften the tax hardship upon corporations and individuals. Large balances carried in public treasuries would be much better off in the channels of commerce and industry. A reform of this kind ought to be enacted at the next session of the legislature so that all taxes within Wisconsin may be paid at least semi-annually.

EXPANDS IN MICHIGAN

Another Wisconsin firm, the Kewaunee Manufacturing company of Kewaunee, has announced that it plans to expand its business in another state. Michigan, because of its favorable tax policy and its attitude toward productive enterprise has been chosen as the state in which this company will transfer a part of its business.

The Kewaunee Manufacturing company is one of the leading concerns of its kind in the state and its officials announce an Adrian, Mich. plant has been purchased because there is no personal property tax or income tax for manufacturers, while real estate taxes are reasonable. This was an important factor in the purchase of the new plant by the Kewaunee company. C. G. Campbell, general manager of the Kewaunee concern, says.

Perhaps after a large number of other industries have either left the state or built new plants elsewhere, Wisconsin will begin to think about revising its present tax system and giving our industries a chance to compete with those in other states where taxation is more equitable. Until this is done we can expect to lose many industries entirely or have them expand elsewhere.

Governor Blaine and his advisers contend that Wisconsin industries are not being unduly taxed. This is not so. One has only to look around to see a large number of important industries that have either moved their general offices, and entire plants or built additions in other states. They have done this reluctantly because Wisconsin has many advantages, including water and excellent rail transportation and a plentiful supply of labor. They would not leave were it not for the fact that the tax system and hostile attitude of the present state administration is unfavorable to profitable manufacturing.

Kewaunee, as a result of this move on the part of the Kewaunee Manufacturing company, probably stands to lose thousands of dollars a year in payrolls which the company will now pay at its Adrian plant, to say nothing of several thousand dollars in taxes.

This ought to give Kewaunee people something to think about, particularly in regard to taxation where our industries are concerned.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

THE BIG BOSS
Sometimes the boss has a reason to think that the world is a queer working place. Sometimes we feel he's a hard-hearted gink and of feeling has nary a trace.
He is the man who is heading the works, where the everyday fellow's employed. He is a brain that, you'll find, seldom shirks, for it's bound to be ever annoyed.
More petty things that are bothersome, quite, are brought to his desk every day. Using discretion, he sets problems right, for he sends puzzled men on their way.
Cooperation means business success. It's the key to our work-day cheer. Cooperation would fixle, I guess, if the big boss we work for weren't here. Give him the credit that's due, that's the tough that will help when it's all done and said. While we are using our hand-power and such, he's the fellow who's using his head.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician And Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

OVERWORK AND RESISTANCE

The old time health officers and health authorities are beginning to show signs of uncertainty about their position in the current controversy. Although they have always been vague and indefinite in telling what they are talking about—they prefer to leave it to the victim to define the "cold"—they are beginning to hedge also on the conditions which they have maintained are contributing causes of the what is it which they decline to identify.

It is, or has been until recently, customary for health authorities, obsessed with the "cold" delusion to teach that fatigue from overwork renders an individual more susceptible to "taking cold," by which term the victim may understand whatever he is mentally equipped to understand. Overwork, according to these old time authorities, is a contributing cause or factor of what is it. Incidentally, why don't they term it the X-disease if the character or nature of the malady is to be kept secret? This theory that fatigue, overwork, exhaustion, run down condition, being worn out, in need of a good rest—ah, that's where it hits us all—certainly seems plausible on its face, and, when they first sprang it a few years ago, I, for one, accepted it without question. It seemed perfectly reasonable to assume that, if one is just about done up physically (dog tired and completely fagged out from prolonged strain and all that sort of thing, any pneumococci, friend, customer, servant, patient or employer might contribute in his conversational spray would be likely to gain a foothold and start something.

But this plausible theory is not borne out by scientific experimentation. First, the research workers endeavored to procure some scientific evidence to support the theory that exposure to cold or wet increased susceptibility to the cold or lowered resistance to the common respiratory infections, but the experimental animals, not understanding clearly what was expected of them, refused to play the role assigned to them, and the experiments of the exposure theory were left without a prop.

Now the research workers have undertaken to demonstrate that fatigue or physical exhaustion increases susceptibility or lowers resistance to infection, and the results of their investigations are reported from time to time in scientific literature. The most careful and authoritative experimental work carried out so far fails to support the theory that fatigue impairs resistance. This is a surprise to every one and a disappointment to the exponents of this "cold" myth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Scale Deposits

I did not understand clearly what to get to remove lime from the tea kettle or the water boiler of a hot water heating plant. (R. P. L.)

Answer—I know of nothing except scraping it out. The deposit of lime in kettle or boiler may be prevented by installing a water softening equipment.

Lotion For Chapping

Kindly give the formula for the lotion to prevent chapping and redness and roughening of the skin. It contained boric acid and glycerin and something else. We found it the most satisfactory thing we ever used. (Mrs. F. H. P.)

Answer—Boric, constantly stirring, a pint of rain water or distilled or soft water with about three drams (three teaspoonfuls) of boric acid and half an ounce (three or four teaspoonfuls) of glycerin and 50 grains of heaping, teaspoonful of fragrant slivers or chips. After prolonged boiling a clear thin jelly is produced. Add enough water to make up for evaporation. Add any perfume you like. A few drops may be applied to the skin two or three times daily after washing and before the skin is quite dry. The lotion is soothing to the skin after shaving.

NOW, HONESTLY—

Think of how often you have told a lady friend:

Or how often you have complimented a gentleman on his new suit.

When, as a matter of fact, the hat looked terrible and the suit looked worse.

It's a way with all of us—to compliment even if we have to fib about it.

Let's be honest, after this. Tell people what you really think.

The result? Oh, you just won't have any friends.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

THE RECORD OF A HAPPY LIFE

The sage who said, "Happy is the country that has no history," might have said with equal force, "Happy is the man who has no biography." Or to turn the statement around, the biographies of the people who have been most unhappy are usually much more interesting than those of men who have led happy, placid and contented lives. As Shelley phrased it, "Our greatest songs are those that tell of saddest thought." Shelley knew this from personal experience, and his own biography is of absorbing interest largely because his life was very sad.

An autobiography was recently put on the market that gives the record of a happy life. It is in fact called "The Recollections of a Happy Life" and it was written during his closing years by Maurice Francis Egan, for many years American ambassador to Denmark.

The record is one of progressive "success" in a certain sense. It is plain that Egan got much satisfaction out of his association with the great, out of the modest triumphs scored, out of the respect he inspired in able and vital men. He was a man who combined the intellectual, the artistic and the active life in a way that filled his days with pleasant activities and that must have given a sense of cutting a figure in the world which must have been very pleasant.

NEVER SUCCEEDED

But for one thing, he never "arrived" in literature. Perhaps he did not have it in him to do that, but if I plain that that was his real and young man. He wanted to be a poet instead he became a diplomat. His career was honorable and successful, and happy but it is almost certain that a hundred years from now one will take the trouble to write his biography, as Amy Lowell and a number of other have for instance written the life of the tragic, the "unsuccessful" John Keats which ended on a note of despair.

For me the chief interest in reading "Recollections of a Happy Life" lies in the fact that it forced the paradoxical thought that the happiness of this individual life was the saddest thing about the book. It makes a merely interesting journalism and nothing more.

Egan is honest enough about it. He does not pretend that it is anything else, and of its kind it is very well done. As journalism it is mind worth reading and it is full of the genial spirit of its author who speaks as a successful American, successful in a modest sense, to all other successful Americans. But it is far from being of that distinguished company of books that are like the "sweetest" songs that tell of saddest thought.

PLEA FOR PHONE RATE INCREASE MEETS PROTEST

TALL SHAWANO TEAM DEFEATS KAWMEN, 16-9

Railroad Commission Hears Application for Boost in Telephone Rates

Kaukauna Will Seek Revenge Saturday When Shawano Plays on Kawmen's Floor

Kaukauna — Indignation was expressed by many local citizens at the hearing on the Wisconsin Telephone Company's application for an increase of rates before the Wisconsin Railroad Commission Saturday morning in the municipal building. Every available chair in the council rooms was occupied. The proposed increase in rates will affect every phone subscriber in the city of Kaukauna. The following increase was asked for: Private business phone from $2.50 to $3.50 per month; two-party business phone from $5 per month to $7 per month; residential phone from $2 to $3 per month; two-party residential phone from $1.75 to $2.50; one-party residential phone from $1.50 to $2.50 per month.

E. M. McEniry, representative of the Wisconsin Telephone Company, and the company's reason for increasing the rates is that they were being forced to pay for the cost of the local exchange to meet the cost of maintenance and the operating expenses connected with rendering of service in Kaukauna. He said that the volume of business in Kaukauna has reached that point where the present equipment is not sufficient to properly handle all the subscribers and that in a short time it will be entirely impossible to even attempt to try to handle them. An entire new switchboard, continued Mr. McEniry, would have to be installed and although at present there is not enough new subscribers to use the entire new switchboard, it would be cheaper to install the entire unit at one time than piecemeal.

Joseph LeFevre, city attorney, asked that the company be required to furnish a complete report of its business in 1925 and a detailed statement of a survey of the company's assets, previous to the time new equipment was added. Mr. LeFevre said that it would be too expensive for a city the size of Kaukauna to make this survey and that the company could easily furnish the company with the required information. Mr. McEniry said that the desired reports would be filed with the commission at once.

Mayor Raught brought up the question of the scope of the Kaukauna exchange adding that Kaukauna was within a mile and a half of Combined Locks, which is practically a business organization of Kaukauna, and that anyone here desiring to call someone in that village had to pay a toll charge while it wasn't necessary to pay toll charges on calls from Combined Locks to Appleton, 7 miles from the village. Mr. McEniry said that the reason for that was because Combined Locks was on a rural line running out of Appleton. He did not believe, he said, this to be exactly right and that he would do everything in his power to have Combined Locks put on the Kaukauna exchange. Furthermore, Mr. McEniry said that Kaukauna had one of the best rural developments in this part of the state. His attorney, J. Krueger, remarked that there were over two hundred and twenty-five rural subscribers. Dr. W. C. Sullivan said that it was not the telephone company which devoted time and money to securing the rural subscribers, but the farmers and the city bore the expenses connected with the development of this territory and that the company could not take any credit for its development. Dr. Sullivan said the company is getting just as much revenue from a line which did not cost anything to install as it was getting from lines the company had to build, and that the city was not getting anything at all for its investment.

Mayor Raught remarked that the city was so peculiarly situated down in a corner of the county that it was impossible for any development of its telephone lines. On one side, he said, only two miles distant was Little Chute and on the south side only a short distance from the city limits were county lines—Calumet and Brown—so it was impossible to expand in that direction. Mr. Raught wanted to know if the telephone company had considered the number of subscribers it would lose with the increase of rates. The telephone representatives were of the opinion that there wouldn't be more than a few stations.

Dr. Sullivan said he believed the business policy of the company to be fundamentally weak, and that the telephone business in this city was only in a stage of development due to the company's own inactivity. He believed that it wouldn't have been necessary for it to come before the commission "praying for an increase in rates in order that it might continue functioning" if it had a stronger business policy.

J. Nielsen asked the commission not to permit any petitions for the increase to be circulated in this city as the people would be too much in a hurry to know just what they were signing. A. R. McDonald of the commission said it never permitted petitions to be circulated and that they were of very little importance even if they were circulated.

In concluding the hearing, Mr. McDonald said that the commission would investigate the conditions fully before making a decision and that if they believed an increase in rates necessary it would be granted. Mr. McDonald expected it to be fully sixty days before a decision could be reached.

E. M. McEniry and Attorney Krueger represented the telephone com-

POWER COMPANY NOW PROVIDING STEADY SERVICE

Appleton Utility Completes New Circuit Assuring New London Better Current

More Cattle Move from City Than Anywhere Else on Ashland Division

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — According to a statement recently made by Ray Thomas, superintendent of the light and water department of this city, this community will have continuous electrical service in the future. This is made possible by the fact that the Wisconsin Traction, Light and Power company of Appleton, which supplies the current in this locality, has completed its circuit all around this city, sending wires into the surrounding cities, villages and rural communities. New London is in the center of the circuit. A switch will be installed here so that this city may cut into high voltage wires on either side of it in case something goes wrong with its own.

The new circuit was completed, and the first current ran through it last week. This means a huge improvement in the city's light and power facilities and practically eliminates the possibility of the city's returning to its own electric plant. This is out of the question, as it would cost approximately $100,000 to put the plant in shape, and the current generated by it would run from 2 to 3 cents more per kilowatt than is now being paid for the Appleton current.

Special to Post-Crescent

The week was started by a big win last Tuesday evening in a total pin game by the local Knights of Columbus five over their brother lodgement of Clintonville. CALL PUBLIC SALE AUCTION

A Farm Auction Sale Must Be Well Advertised To Be A Success

WHEN the farmer sets a date on which to dispose of his farm and personal property — it means that thousands of dollars' worth of property must be disposed of in ONE SINGLE DAY.

THEREFORE it is of the utmost importance to reach all individuals who might be interested in some article or animal to be sold.

The Public Medium

best suited for this purpose in OUTAGAMIE and surrounding Counties is the APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

WHY?

- (1) It reaches 9 out of every 10 rural homes in Outagamie and surrounding counties.
- (2) Farmers are close readers and act promptly on advertising published in our "Auction" and "Poultry and Livestock" columns. (We see evidences of this every day.)
- (3) The Post-Crescent is a medium that is welcomed in every home and thus carries its advertising message inside the home where it is read at leisure.
- (4) No other advertising medium can broadcast the news of your sale so thoroughly over a large territory—and with such economy.

BARTHELMESS CORRE
PERSONAL TRIUMPH
IN "JUST SUPPOSE"
Richard Barthelmess as a Prince and Lois Moran, beautiful screen star, as a Princess! In the whole world of make-believe nothing more rapturously romantic can be imagined.
It all happens in the mythical kingdom of Koronia, a dominion of pomp, ceremony, grandees—and love.
It is "Just Suppose" two of the happiest words in the English language.
Barthelmess, who in many ways in the picture resembles the Prince of Wales, woos a young American girl. But the death of an elder brother suddenly places him in direct line of royal inheritance, and his country supersedes his love. However, though Cupid seems routed and love is apparently sacrificed for the throne, all is rearranged at the end, and the prince and princess are happily married.
It is all like a beautiful fairy tale—and yet nothing like it at all.
Barthelmess gives a distinguished performance. This sort of excellent has come to be taken for granted in this splendid actor. As for Lois Moran, a relative new-comer to the screen, she is priceless. Such delicacy, reserve and restraint has rarely been seen in the films before. She has an inborn genius for pantomime, that will place her among the really great before she is very much older.
She is only sixteen now.
"Just Suppose" now showing at the Elite Theatre, is based on the A. E.
Thomas stage hit of the same name.
It was directed by Kenneth Webb and presented by Inspiration pictures through First National. The imaginative costumes and uniforms, which are one of the interesting factors in the film, were designed by Hugo Bumholdt.
The supporting cast comprises
Geoffrey Kerr, Henry Viliart, George
Spavin, Harry Short, Bijou Fernandez and Prince Tokenedine, a real Persian Prince.
For sheer beauty and romance
"Just Suppose" is not to be missed.

"BARRIERS BURNED AWAY"
FULL OF DRAMA AND THRILLS
"Barriers Burned Away," the Encore Picture to be shown at the New Bijou Theatre today and Tuesday, commands attention on at least three scores. In the first place it reproduces the Chicago fire of 1871 in scenes that are thrilling, sensational and real, being the largest fire sequence ever staged for a motion picture. In the second place it has a story of dramatic and romantic intensity, written by Leah Baird from the famous novel and stage play of Rev. E. P. Roe.
Thirdly, its cast is a long list of stars and well-known artists of the screen. Mabel Ballin and Frank Mayo play the leading roles, assisted by Wanda Hawley, Tom Santschi, Wally
Van, Arline Pretty, Frankie Moran,
Harry T. Morey, J. P. Lockney, William V. Mong, Eric Mayne, James Henson, Lawson Galt, Pat Harmon and Mrs. Charles G. Craig. W. S. Van Dyke directed.
The story shows how the proud and haughty Chicago belle, Christine Randolph, scorned the love of a man who occupied a menial position in her father's store and only learned the true value of love and life after her soul had been purified by the depths of suffering, and a great holocaust had robbed her of everything except an unfading but enduring love.

ACTRESS WOULD RATHER WORK THAN "ENJOY SOCIETY"

Mary Swirell of Chicago likes to work. Two years ago she went on the stage. Now her father made a huge fortune in Florida real estate and has wired her to "come home and enjoy society." But she sticks to the stage remarking "I'll continue to dance, because you know the devil finds lots of work for his hands."

Miss Grace Olive Wiley, curator of the museum of the Minnesota Academy of Natural Sciences, has a job that's different. She takes care of thirteen Texas diamond back rattlesnakes and their little ones, and likes it. She took one of the rattlers to Kansas City to show it to a convention of scientists. She says rattlers are friendly and like to be petted.

The windy city of Chicago is trying hard to be Parisian. As a result, the costumes seen at the No-Turf Art Ball held there were strangely reminiscent of a cross between the Montmartre and the Loop on a rainy day. The unfeeling police didn't even descend to rid the place. Above is Miss Irene Brown, dancer and model, wearing the costume in which she appeared at the ball.

An elaborate whisky distillery in an abandoned lead mine, 260 feet under the surface, was raided by federal prohibition men at Ficher, Okla. ALMOST TWICE AS MANY BIRTHS AS DEATHS IN YEAR

Dr. W. C. Felton, Health Officer, Reports on Year's Activities

Efforts of the stork to outshine the Grim Reaper in Appleton during the year 1925 were well repaid, for the number of births was almost double the deaths, according to the report of Dr. William C. Felton, city physician, which shows 506 births and 263 deaths. This is an excess of 243 births over the deaths. Cupid's score was 175, there being that many marriages in the city during the year.

The banner months for births were January and August each having 53. October was second with 50 visits of the stork recorded in Appleton homes. The smallest number of births was recorded in April, with only 26. Births in other months were: February 38; March, 40; May, 44; June 37; July, 45; August, 53; September, 46; November, 37; December 37.

In striking contrast to the high birth record in January only eight deaths were reported for this month, by far the lowest of any month during the year. October with 35 deaths was the biggest month for the reaper. Deaths in the other months were: February 18; March, 28; April, 22; May, 27; June, 26; July, 21; August, 24; September, 12; November, 19; December, 17.

Ninety-five homes were quarantined at some time during the year, 100 were fumigated, and 99 were placarded. The report also shows that 516 sanitary food inspections were made, and that 425 milk and cream tests were performed.

There were 27 marriages in June, and 26 in January. March was low with only four nuptial knots tied. Other months were: February 11; April 6; May, 12; July, 17; August, 18; September, 15; October, 18; November, 12; and December, 9.

Scarlet fever was the most prevalent contagious disease with 46 cases reported. Only one case of typhoid was reported. January and May had the most contagious disease cases, with 24 each. March had the smallest number of cases with only six. In direct contrast to the current year, there were no cases of measles reported in January or February of 1925. January, however, was a bad month for smallpox, with 11 cases. There were fourteen cases of tuberculosis. The years report of contagious diseases follows: Diphtheria, 22; scarlet fever, 46; smallpox, 26; whooping cough, 26; chicken pox, 36; measles, 18; typhoid, 1; tuberculosis, 11.

The city physician made 358 visits to the homes of the poor, and he was visited at his office by 218 persons, according to the report. The greatest number of visits to the homes occurred in January when 64 calls were made. Burial permits issued during the year totaled 331, nearly 60 more than number of deaths, showing that many bodies were shipped here for burial.

DEFER HEARING ON CONDEMNING NEW ROAD ROUTE

Winnebago-co Acts to Condemn Right of Way Through Lynch Farm

A hearing on the proposed condemnation of land on the John Lynch farm in Winnebago-co for the purpose of building a road from the south end of S. Cherry-st bridge to highway 13 to eliminate the present circuitous route was scheduled for last Thursday morning in Winnebago county court, but was postponed until next Wednesday, according to word received from Oshkosh. The hearing will come as the result of agitation by Appleton and Outagamie-co officials to have the highway extended through the Lynch farm. Members of the Winnebago-co road and bridge committee were appealed to and became interested in the project of shortening route between Appleton and Menasha. This committee offered to buy the land from Mr. Lynch and Henry Goosen, who held a mortgage on the farm, but both the owner and the mortgagee refused to sell at a reasonable price it was said.

Members of the Winnebago road and bridge committee then petitioned the court to acquire the land for the county by condemnation proceedings. Efforts to acquire a right of way for a road through the Lynch farm have been continued since the Cherry-st viaduct was completed a year ago.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, chances often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. adv.

SPEND $1,500 TO MAKE MOVIES OF AUTOMOBILE

Motion picture of automobile construction which will be shown at the vocational school beginning March 1, and continuing for six weeks, are said to be the most elaborate and detailed educational reels ever produced. The first three reels of the series concern the engine, the differential and the running gear. Many cross section views show the various parts of the engine in actual operation, such as the gasoline passing through the carburetor, or the explosion of the gasoline in the cylinders.

The films are being sent to vocational schools in the state by the visual department of University of Wisconsin Extension division. The cost of the automobile picture was $1,500. Anyone interested in the machinery and the operation of an automobile is welcome to see the picture at the vocational school, according to Herb Hellig, director.

Artistic Hair Bobbing

Courteous Attention to All Patrons

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

A Business Tonic
That Won Success

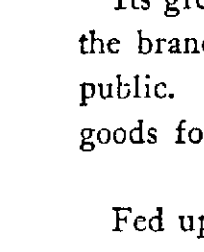

Everything has a beginning; a child is born and has to be carefully nourished. If left alone it could not live.

The beginning of the business of the J. C. Penney Company was a precarious one. It passed through many moments of uncertainties. But it was never left alone.

Its greatest nourishment was derived from the brand of service its founder gave to the public. It served best by giving only worthy goods for the least possible money.

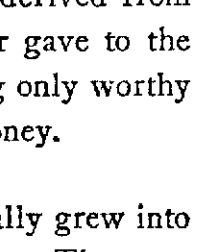

Fed upon this tonic it eventually grew into a live, rapidly-expanding business. The same service governs its operations today as then, but the strength of this service has been notably increased.

FLAG RECEPTACLES COVERED WITH ICE
If wide gaps between street flags were noticed in some spots along College-st. on Washington's birthday, it did not necessarily mean that some Appleton merchants were lacking in patriotism, but that many of the holes in the sidewalk were so frozen beneath layers of ice and snow that would have meant a half day's job to dig out. The ice on the sidewalks along the curb was at least four or five inches thick in some places. Some of the merchants who have flags in their custody were undaunted by such an obstacle as the weather, however, and many of them could be seen early Monday morning with pails of hot water, salt and hammer and chisel, determined to hollow out a hole where Old Glory could be placed for the day.

Can't Use Lake For Filming Uncle Tom's Cabin Scene

Lake Winnebago was too highly populated to make a good background for the scene of Eliza crossing the ice in Uncle Tom's Cabin, to be staged by the Universal Motion Picture corporation, according to John Lawton, location manager of the corporation, who visited Appleton Sunday to see if he could lay his winter scenes of the picture on the shores of the lake. The desirable location for the scenes is one where there are no houses for a long stretch of shore, and where trees grow close to the shore line. The trees and the piles of ice were favorable near Waverly beach, Mr. Lawton said, but the cottages were placed close together that it would not be possible to take the scenes there. Mr. Lawton will consider the lake at Redwing, Minn., for his purpose and if that also is unsatisfactory, the summer scenes probably will be staged in Mississippi, according to John Lawton.

HOPFENSBERGER BROS., INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARBARA HAWLEY, 25, anxious to see life, jills BRUCE REYNOLDS, her fiance, and gets a job on the Appleton Telegraph. Adventure begins when by means of a red scarf she connects LYDIA STACY, wealthy widow, with the suicide of a prominent man at a roadside.

Mrs. Stacy likes Bruce. She refuses to invest in his realty development, Vale Acres, when he refuses her advances. She goes to ANDREW MEDEER, MOTT, managing editor of the Telegraph, and tells him Bruce's first is crooked. As though to justify her charge, Manners, Bruce's partner, absconds. Much publicity is given the affair, for which Bruce blames Barbara.

Barbara's invalid mother dies. Barbara takes an apartment with Fanny, McDermott's daughter. Fanny is in love with Jerome Hall, man about town, and when Barbara tries to cure the girl of her infatuation Fanny accuses Barbara of wanting him herself.

Bruce weds VIOLETTA CRANBY, factory girl he "met" through Barbara's "leveling" column. Barbara, at a National Federation of Women's Clubs convention, sees Manners and has him brought back to Appleton under charges. He implicates Bruce.

Barbara confronts Mrs. Stacy with the red scarf in an effort to get the widow to help Bruce. At the last moment in Bruce's trial, Mrs. Stacy dramatically takes the stand in his defense and he is acquitted.

Fanny weds Jerome Hall. Barbara, in calling the hospitals for births and deaths, almost faints when the clerk mentions a familiar name.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXII

The clerk at the other end of the wire repeated the name. Barbara clung to the receiver with her left hand. Her right hand lay idle on the pad of paper, the pencil beside it.

At last she thanked the hospital clerk and hung up. She picked up the notes she had made of the other items, and went out of the telephone booth.

"Hurry up, there, Miss Hawley," called Wells. "The hospital column ought to be up in a few minutes." She neither answered nor looked at him, but went straight to her desk and put a sheet of paper in her typewriter. She copied the items scrawled on the pad of scratch paper—the beginnings and endings of human lives. The typewriter ground out paragraph after paragraph, dry, bloodless as a market report.

One by one, Barbara marked off the items on the pad until none was left.

Then she put a fresh sheet of paper in the typewriter and began to write. "Reynolds—Bruce and Violetta, a son, born Monday at St. Elizabeth hospital."

Wells almost snatched the copy from Barbara's hands. "Have to snap into it," he said to the copy-reader. "This list is late."

The copy-reader glanced at Barbara expecting some retort. But she was walking away, her lips tight.

Wells also looked up, and seeing her absent manner, called after her petulantly. "Will you call the civic clubs and the chamber of commerce now, Miss Hawley? Get their weekly announcements."

Still Barbara did not answer him. She went into the booth again, tore off the top sheet of the pad and sat down in the squeaking chair.

When she came out of the booth some time later, with the pad in her hand, she met McDermott on his way to the composing room. "You look tired, Barbara," he said. "Why don't you go home?"

She smiled and shook her head, but she could not speak.

Wells had apparently recovered from his fit of rage and said, "Why don't you go home?"

"I will, after awhile," she answered.

Barbara stayed in the Telegraph office until the papers came up from the press room. A copy boy laid one of them on her desk.

Barbara folded it and put it under her arm. Then she put on her hat and left the office.

The streets were beginning to fill with the afternoon rush. Barbara walked through the shopping district, glancing now and then at display windows, turning corners with out heed, running into passers-by. Around and around she went, encircling the same blocks many times. She entered a department store and walked through the ground floor, looking at nothing.

At last it was growing dark and she turned her steps toward home. The faded copy of the Telegraph was still under her arm.

In Lawrence's neighborhood several of her neighbors, the women rushing home from shopping trips, the men striding along with packages and newspapers under their arms.

Now and then a toddler met one of them and crawled up, his legs into his arms, with shrill cries of "Daddy."

Near Barbara's apartment house, Tommy and his kiddy car blocked the sidewalk. His blond head was bent over the refractory wheel and he was tugging at it with strainings of his chubby arms and legs.

As Barbara approached, he looked up at her. "Do you know anything about kiddy cars?" he asked, his brows wrinkled. "This one ain't no good."

Barbara tried to smile. "No," she said. "I don't."

The boy was staring at her very hard. "Say, your eyes are awful big. You look just like my picture of Alice in Wonderland when the duchess said, 'Chop off her head.' Do you know about Alice?"

Barbara shook her head and went on up the steps.

MITCHELL SET FOR ASSAULT ON ARMY FOGGYISM

Got Publicity He Needed to Attract Attention to His Crusade

BY CHARLES F. STEWART

Washington — Although Congressman Frank H. Reid, Colonel "Billy" Mitchell's lawyer, issued a bitter denunciation of President Coolidge, for his prompt approval of the court-martial sentence against the colonel, it ought not to be assumed that Mitchell and Reid feel under anything but obligation to the president for not keeping them waiting.

Mitchell wants to begin fulminating again as soon as possible. So long as his case hung fire he couldn't do it.

Now his campaign's going to start in earnest.

The truth is, the colonel and his legal adviser would have been dreadfully disappointed if there'd been any slip-up in the former's martyrdom. This isn't to say that Mitchell's insincerity, but he has a keen appreciation of the value of lots of publicity for himself. If he's to accomplish what he set out to accomplish.

He expected and wanted to be court-martialed all the time. He expected and wanted to be convicted. He wanted a severe sentence, too.

That was one part of the program that worried him a little. What he feared was that his brother officers would say, "Well, you're guilty of insubordination, but you don't amount to enough so it matters much."

That's what they'd have done if they'd used good judgment. But the trouble is, a good many army officers take themselves very seriously. Instead of assuming a "shoo fly" attitude when Mitchell roared at them, they grew exceedingly sore about it and yearned to do something really savage to him.

The result was that they played right into his hands and now he's got on, on top, just as he hoped to do. Another thing that violently irritates the old-timers in the War Department is that nearly everybody credits the colonel with iron nerve—the prodigious courage of overwhelmingly strong convictions.

As the old-timers see it, it isn't so much nerve he has as money. The old-timers probably don't do him justice. He undoubtedly does have good nerve. But even with nerve, he'd have been crazy to run the course he has if he'd been dependent on his pay. If he weren't rich he'd be in imminent danger today of starving to death.

Mitchell unquestionably will make life extremely miserable for army and navy men of the orthodox school for a long time to come.

Except to folk he's attacking, he has an engaging personality. He speaks and writes forcefully, picturesquely and convincingly. He has tremendous energy. His crusade's popular—aviation—romantic, thrilling and, so the colonel says, economical. It'll make a hit, indeed, he has already.

Besides angering the old-timers and keeping them in a ferment, he may make it hard for them to get appropriations for their old-time purposes, if he convinces enough people that armies and navies are obsolete.

Nobody can seriously thing over all the claims Mitchell makes without realizing that he exaggerates. He's bucking, however, a great deal of old fogeyism.

He stands a chance of doing some good, provided he doesn't overdo it. In any event, it's bound to be fun to listen to him and watch the old-timers squirm, as he broadcasts.

MONEY OR LOVE, PLOT OF JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

Should $12,000,000 be the prime motive for marriage, is one of the problems solved in the junior class play, "Seven Chances," by Roi Cooper Meigs to be given March 1 at the Appleton theater by a cast chosen from the Junior class of Appleton High school.

Jimmy, the hero, played by Alois Lietzen, and the possessor of $12,000,000, provided he marries within 24 hours, feels that money should be an adequate incentive for any girl to marry. Six out of seven of his women friends agree with him, and in this lies disaster, as Jimmy finds.

Miss Eunice Segal plays the role of the seventh girl who is old-fashioned enough to think that love should be a contributing factor in marriage.

The other girls in the cast are: Lily Trevor, a languishing romantic type, played by Miss Alice Grelchow; Peggy Wood, the ultra-modern girl, played by Miss Lucella Giese; Irene Trevor, "baldy vamp," played by Miss Margaret Hecker; Georgianna Garrison, secretly engaged, played by Miss Gwendolyn Purvis; Florence Jones, a light weight, heavy weight, played by Miss Lois Kloebe; Mrs. Garrison, played by Miss Louise Marston; Miss Evelyn Marston will play a Gypsy street singer.

Of eight Londoners who had made a promise to meet at the steps of St. Paul's cathedral 20 years hence and sing "Auld Lang Syne" four kept their word recently. Three were dead and the other disappeared.

No Indiana man ever has been appointed to the United States Supreme Court.

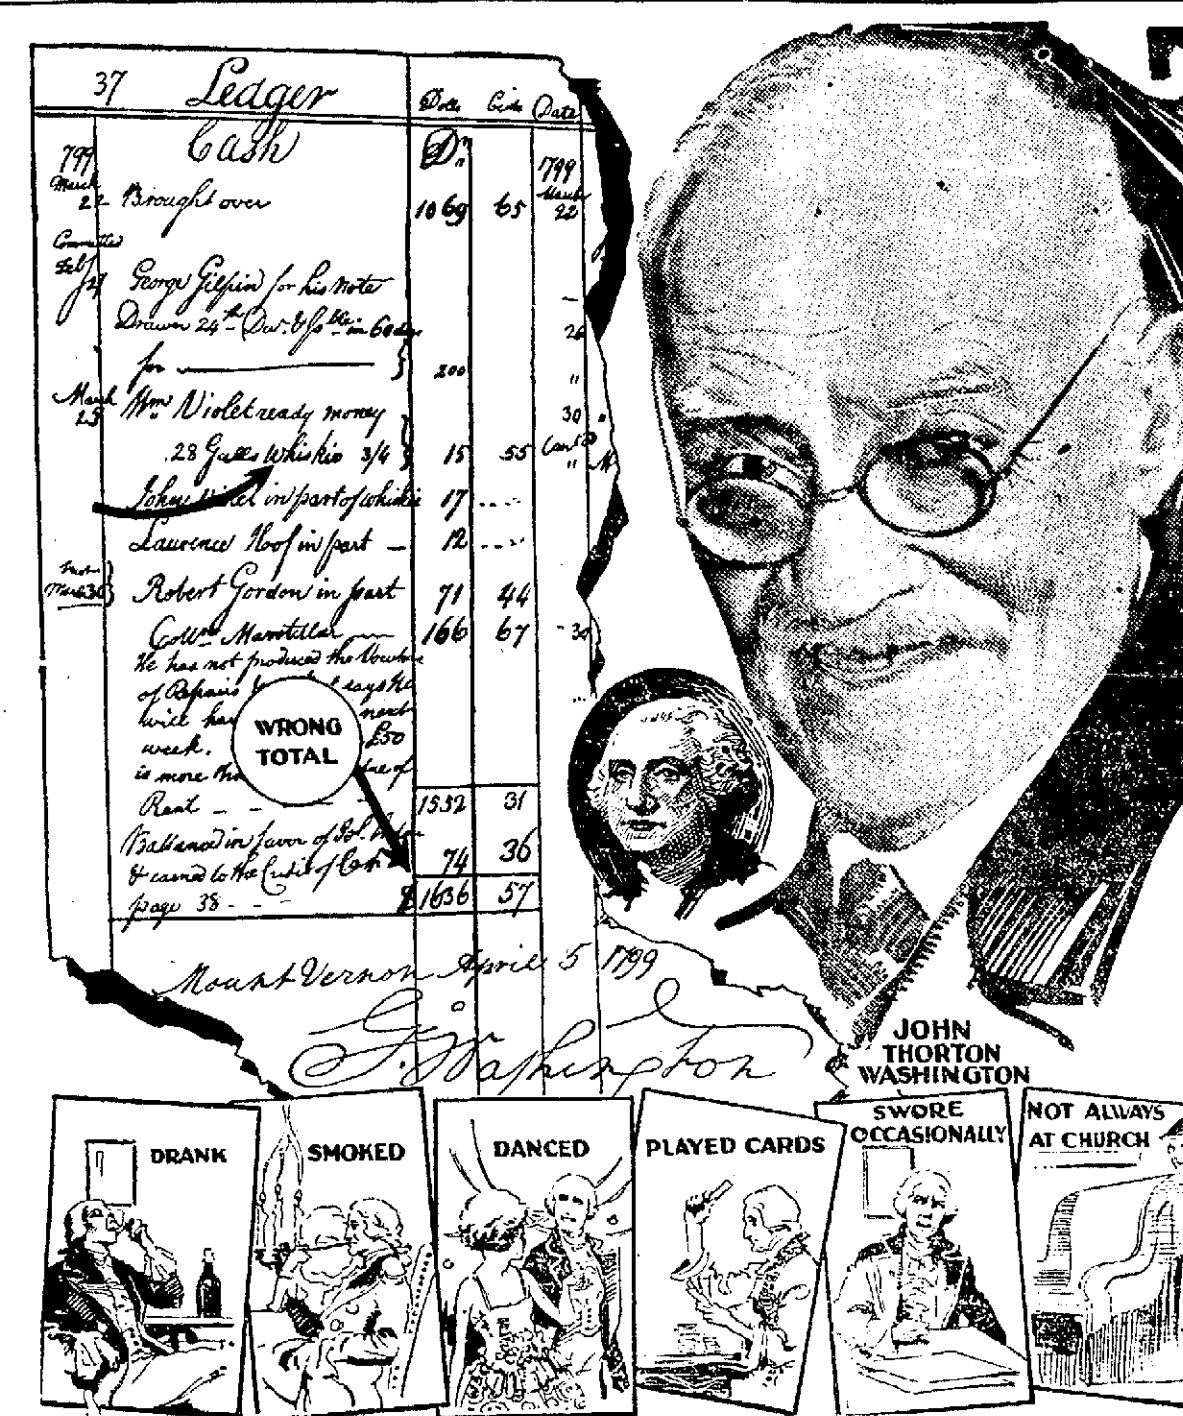

Interviews with theatrical people and an occasional first night in a Broadway theater.

"Your salary would begin at $75 a week."

"Will you let us hear from you?" The letter was signed by a name already gloriously familiar to Barbara. It was the name of a famous theatrical writer.

WASHINGTON NO SAINT, FAMILY HISTORIAN SAYS

George Washington may never have told a lie, but at least he certified that a false account was correct. The page shown above is a photostatic copy of a page in his personal accounts, now in the (Omaha, Neb.) public library. The addition at the bottom is incorrect, ten dollars more than it should be. Not also the receipts for the sale of whisky, marked with an arrow. The error went unnoticed for years until a public accountant happened to scan the page. At the right is his kinsman, who vows that the first president was a "ho-man," and below are some of the things he says Washington did.

BY VTD LARSEN
 San Francisco — The father of his country never suspected that his child would lose any sleep over its parent's private life.

So George Washington was a drinker, a smoker, a dancer, a card player, and on occasion—a most artistic cuss.

This is the picture given of him by his great-grandson, John Thornton Washington of San Francisco, who draws on family records for the portrait.

The present-day Washington waxes wroth when people try to paint the first president as a "sissy" instead of a "he-man."

THE EMPTY PEW
 "Of course Washington drank, smoked, danced and played cards," he says. "Why not? All gentlemen of his time did."

"And although he had a pew in Christ's church at Alexandria, it was unoccupied more often than it was occupied."

"He was a great man. Unquestionably he saved the republic."

"But Washington was no prude; he wasn't a stupid, stilted person. He was a human being. And he was a handsome man and undoubtedly many women cast sheep's eye at him during his life time, although it's a lie that he wasn't a good husband."

"Why? Two drunk Madeline, wine that came from the cellars of Mt. Vernon. That was in 1861 when I was visiting my grandfather's plantation in Virginia."

"One of the troubles with us Americans is that we insist on making sies out of our national heroes. We want our national heroes to reflect in every detail our own personal views on life, religion, booze, philosophy, art, tobacco, Americanism, dining and what not."

"And so, as the years roll on, we insist that Lincoln was this and Washington was that and that Grant never smoked and that Jefferson believed the Adam and Eve version of creation."

"Take the cherry tree story about Washington. It's pure bunk, manufactured out of whole cloth by a preacher 30 years after Washington's death. My great grandfather asked the gentleman why he told such a stupid story about Washington, and the gentleman replied that he did it to inculcate a respect for truth in the boys and girls of the land."

"What sort of morality is a that depends on lies?"

"LOTS OF FUN"
 John Washington is 80 years old, and has lived a life check full of the "good living" which, he insists, was enjoyed by his famous kinsman. He was born in Virginia, and came west in 1851, only to go back east again 10 years later to fight for the Confederacy. He returned to California after the war and has lived here ever since working in the gold fields for a time and trying his hand at journalism.

REPORT MEASLES IN 52 HOMES HERE

Unusually Large Number of Cases Reported by Health Department for January

While scarlet fever continues to contribute a few cases to the city's record for contagion, the city last month was quite free of contagious diseases except for the epidemic of measles. Fifty-two cases were reported during January, according to the monthly report of Dr. William C. Felton, health commissioner.

Other cases reported were: Chicken pox 7, scarlet fever 4, diphtheria, tuberculosis, influenza and mumps 1 each. Births almost doubled the deaths, there being 57 of the former and 31 of the latter. Five marriages were reported. As city physician, Dr. Felton made 22 calls in homes of the poor and received 26 office visits from the poor. Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer, gave a report of his activities which included four homes quarantined for scarlet fever, one for diphtheria, seven homes placarded for chicken pox, 52 for measles, seven homes fumigated, 25 released from quarantine, 18 stores and dairies inspected, 15 investigations of complaints and 51 samples of milk and cream tested.

Two tons of imitation pearls were used in Culver City, Cal. to fashion costumes for movies actresses in a huge "pearls ballet" dance.

Adventures Of The Twins

McTangle

The Land of the Blue Cherry

The Fairy Queen telephoned for the twins to go to her palace at once as she had a very important errand for them to do.

So they lost no time in hunting up her secret dwelling place, which was south of the Lingle Bell, north of the Windy Wold, west of the Glimmering Glade and east of the Setting Sun.

"How do you do, my dears," said the Fairy Queen when they arrived. "I'm very happy to see you."

"We're pretty well, thank you," said Nick. "Except that I've got a loose tooth and can't eat apples."

"And I have a scratch on my finger," said Nancy. "Caesar and I were playing and he scratched me."

"Just like a cat," cried the Fairy Queen. "They have queer notions of fun. But there! We're losing time and poor Twinkle Pen is suffering."

"Twinkle Pen?" cried the twins together.

"Yes," nodded her Royal Highness. "One old Twinkle Pen. He is my chief clerk and secretary. He knows everything in all my business and writes my notes for me. The poor dear fairyman went to take a drink of water last night, and in the dark he kicked up his inkwell by mistake and drank all the ink."

"That was terrible!" said Nancy. "Did he die?"

"No," said the Fairy Queen. "Fairy men don't die. But he turned black all over at once, then green, then purple, then blue. He's blue now, and his hair is orange. Besides that he is in a most peculiar condition. He can't stop writing. He just sits with a pen in his hand and writes and writes all the time. He's filled up all the paper in the palace and he's beginning on the walls. The ink flows right out through the end of his fingers. It's terrible indeed."

"Can't he stop?" asked Nick.

"It seems not," said the Fairy Queen. "He's written the A, B, C's in twenty languages; the dictionary twice, and added up all the numbers in the telephone book. I'm ever so afraid that he'll begin on 'Forty-nine Blue Bottles a-hanging on the Wall.' If he does all is lost, for that poem has no end."

"Can we help?" asked Nick.

"Yes, indeed," said the Fairy Queen quickly. "That is why I sent for you. Doctor Pukken Pills and Doctor Sniffles, the two fairy doctors for whom I sent at once, say that there is a cure for ink drinking. It is a blue cherry."

At that minute Doctor Sniffles himself walked into the room. And upon hearing the Fairy Queen's last words, he remarked, "Yes, a blue cherry is the only cure for our poor friend, as it was blue ink he drank. If he had drunk red ink, any cherry would do to cure him. But unfortunately it was blue ink. Even black ink would have been less difficult to cure, for there are black cherries in plenty. Or green ink would have been—poof!—nothing at all."

"Of course it had to be blue!" said the Fairy Queen despairingly. "And where are we to find a blue cherry?"

"Ah!" cried a voice at the door. "That was what I was trying to think of—the very word. Blue! Blue! Blue! Forty-nine blue bottles a-hanging on the wall! Tra, la, la, la, la! I'll have to write that now. I still have all the sheets and table cloths and towels and napkins to write on."

And in walked poor Twinkle Pen, looking like a large blue and orange mosaic.

"Me, oh my!" sighed the Fairy Queen. "The worst has happened. We shall have to find the blue cherry as soon as we can now."

LAWRENCE TRIPS MARQUETTE FIVE AGAIN, 16-13

BLUES BEST MURRAY FIVE IN LAST HALF

Score Six Out of Nine Points in Final Period for Narrow Victory

Special to Post-Crescent
Milwaukee—Lawrence College has defeated the Murray five in the narrow victory they won at Appleton a few weeks ago when the Blues and White five defeated Marquette University here last Saturday night, 16-13. It was the fourth victory over the Murray-coached five in two years. Denny altered his lineup a bit to start the game and sent Johnson in at guard in place of Grove. When Whites had warmed up a bit Grove resumed his post and put up one of the best guarding games of the season. Clark rejected Zussman shortly after the end of the first quarter and proceeded to make a name for himself as a defensive forward; he was constantly harassing the Marquette warriors and covered more than his share of the floor. Marquette took the lead early in the game with a free throw and was not headed until the game ended the first half when Heidemann came through with a free throw to give Lawrence a 10 to 5 lead. The Whites scored all the Blues and Denny scored all the Whites and the Whites in the first half with the exception of a one counter by Johnson when the latter made good a free throw. Heidemann started the scoring for Lawrence with a free throw and was followed by Johnson's counter. Briese then came along to drop a field goal and then a free throw. The next five points on the Larry side of the ledger were made by Heidemann, three free counters and a field goal. The second half displayed stellar play. The Blues half five Lawrence played desperately to prevent the lead from slipping away and Marquette endeavored to keep the score down to where they might have a chance to win. Marquette probably had the advantage on attempts made in this period but their shooting was poor whenever the Larry guards permitted them to get set for a shot. Ashman and Grove displayed rare ability in getting the ball on the rebound and kept Curran, tanky Marquette center from using his height to aid his team's scoring. The Blues scored nine points in the last 20 minutes by the two teams. Lawrence garnered six points on two baskets by Briese, one a long high shot, and a pretty counter by Grove. Marquette counted but four points, a field goal by Demoling and two free tickets. The game was a typical Denny game and the many spectators were continually on edge as the two teams raced from one end of the floor to the other always battling for an advantage. But Denny's "Laurance" Larry was not to be denied and when Marquette had fallen when the gun ended hostilities. Lawrence—G. FT. F. DuPonts in an over time game only to be defeated 10 to 8, when Buck LaMay broke loose and dribbled the length of the floor for the winning basket. Williams and Gessen's Hawks postponed their performance until a later date because of inability to be present. LaBerg lost to the Schwabens Wildcats in the final match.

LAWRENCE HOCKEY SQUAD TOPS MENASHA ROUNDERS

Lawrence hockey squad won its second game of the season Saturday, defeating the Menasha Rounders at Menasha 6-3 in an exciting contest. The Blue pucksters had defeated the same team here the week before. The lineup of the Lawrentians included Mueller and Woeckner, wings; Hutton, center; Aderhold, Schweiger, guards; Schlin, goal. The Menasha skaters, showing a decided improvement over the previous week, outplayed the Hutton coached team in the early part of the game but fell before the fierce attack of the Blues later on. The guarding of Schlin goal snuffed several Menasha attempts to score. The Kaukauna skater will meet the Lawrence representatives at Whiting rink next Saturday afternoon.

Name Bill Winterble Badger Tennis Coach

Madison—The regents of the University of Wisconsin officially announced the appointment of "Bill" Winterble as varsity tennis coach without pay. Winterble will be a great help to Coach Masley, who is working double time due to the illness of gymnastic Coach Schlatter. The Madison man is ready to take up the work gratis due to the fact that he wishes to retain his amateur standing. Winterble is a well known tennis player, having been one of the most feared singles and doubles players in the northwest until forced to quit in 1921, because of a nervous breakdown. He was singles champion in the Red Cross meet at Deephaven, Minn., in 1917, and also reached the finals in the Tri-State tournament at Sioux City the same year and won the doubles championship there. Later he was finalist at the Heart of the Lakes meet at Duluth in both singles and doubles in 1919, and won the singles and doubles at Prairie du Chien and the doubles at La Crosse, where he and his partner defeated Weller and Paddock, the Wisconsin state doubles net champions. Sophomores will this winter and spring play an important part on the University of Wisconsin track team. One pair especially seemed set to establish fine marks and become high class. Big Ten runners are their collegiate track days are ended. Erickson and Zola are the pair above and each came through with a first in their first conference competition against Iowa last Saturday. Erickson surprised the field when he won the half in better than two minutes. This was his first meet and on the treacherous Badger track, the time was good. Zola was a member of the Big Ten Championship cross country team and won the mile in a trifle better than four minutes. He is coming around nicely and will do better on the outdoor under path.

APPLETON POSTAL FIVE DOWNS MENASHA TEAM

Appleton postoffice bowling squad took the measure of the Menasha postal crew for two games in their special match here Saturday evening at Eagle alleys. The Menashans took the opening game but dropped the final two starts. The rolling of Kositzke, who counted 619, was largely responsible for the local victory. His games were 226, 192 and 201. Pinner hit 545 and Brown 540. Mayew was high for the Menasha pinsters with 684. The scores: Menasha PPost Office—Won 1, Lost 2—Mayew 198, 206, 180, 584; Kittenhauser 175, 160, 140, 490; Schillerling 137, 157, 176, 460; Ellinger 168, 158, 135, 461; W. Pinner 152, 161, 522, 70. PHI KAPS TAKE LEAD IN GREEK CAGE CIRCUIT

Defeat Sig Eps 13 to 6; Delta Sig-Beta Match Is Postponed

By defeating the Sig Eps five 13 to 6 Saturday afternoon in Alexander gymnasium the Phi Kap quint gained undisputed lead of the Greek basketball league. Only three games were played Saturday, the Delta Sig-Beta match being postponed until Wednesday at the request of the Betas so it is hard to dope out the possibilities of the championship, the finals of the series coming next Saturday. Beta's Sig Eps held the Phi Kap's aggregation led by Hiltion, to even scoring in the last frame, each team netting three points, but the lead that the Hiltion's men had piled up earlier in the game was enough to give them the game and the leadership in the league. The first half ended 10 to 3 with the Phi Kaps in the lead.

The other two games were slow compared to the Sig Eps-Phi Kap bout. The Phi Taus took the Psi Chi cage into camp, 10 to 3, in a game which would have been won by a much larger score but for the fact that the winners could not find the net. Theta Phi strengthened their claim for bottom honors by letting the Delta Iota basket team run off with them to the tune of 26 to 9. It now looks as if the only stone in the path of the Phi Kap machine is the Beta quint captained by Tarnel. If the Betas win from the leaders in the league next Saturday, there will be a tie for first and second places but if the Beta five loses, the Phi Kaps will take the honors and the cup.

Phi Kaps and Delta Iota are tied for the lead in the Inter-Fraternity basketball league, with 156 Peta and Phi Taus even for second honors. The Greek second teams mixed again Saturday morning in the Alexander gym. The D. I. five romped on the Betas, 11 to 4, and the Delta Sig found men lost a close game to the Phi Taus, 12 to 10. Psi Chi forfeited their match to the Phi Kaps. The winner in this league will be awarded a basketball.

BIG PIN MEET CLOSES MONDAY

Chicago Team Heads List With 2,956; Racine Pair Lead in Doubles

St. Paul, Minn., 40—Bowlers took their last crack at the needles in the eighteenth Annual International Bowling tournament Monday as preparations were made to wind up the tourney Monday afternoon. With the five men event completed Sunday night, the two men and individual events were Monday's principal business. Leaders in the two men standings were not disturbed by rollers Sunday night, the Ad Lances Ice Cream company of Pease making the highest score of the shift when they rolled 2,956. This left the Underwriters Soxers Corporation of Chicago, at the head of the quint with their count of 2,955. Bowlers Monday had the score of 831 to aim at in the singles. J. Tledge of Chicago, heading the singles with that count. He also heads the 40 events with 1,901. In the two men event C. Peterson and E. Kelly of Racine, Wis., headed the list with 1,262.

STANFORD HOPES TO WIN GOLFING HONORS

Stanford hopes to put over a victory in the annual California intercollegiate golf tournament on the Pebble Beach links this month. Its old rival, California, has copped the honors for the last two years. With Ashton Stanley and Neal Miller standing out as its best bets, however, Stanford believes it has a splendid chance to win.

PETTY FELL DOWN IN DEBUT WITH DODGERS

Joels Petty of the Dodgers didn't do so well in his initial big league season last year, winning and losing nine games. In 1924 Petty was with Indianapolis and ranked near the top of the list in the American Association. Great things were expected of him at Brooklyn but he could get nothing better than an even break.

Second Lenglen-Wills Match At Nice Deferred

Nice, France.—(P)—Although Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Wills will not meet in a singles match before June at St. Cloud, they will face each other across the net again at Monte Carlo next Saturday in play for the Beaumont Cup for national doubles pairs. Mlle. Lenglen will have Didi Vlasto as her partner and they are considered almost certain to reach the finals. The French girl said that her physician had informed her that if she continued to participate in the Riviera contests she would go stale as of June. She added that she would seek a quiet retreat in the mountains immediately and continue the period of rest which she has been taking except for a match in the women's doubles at Beauvieu Saturday, since her strenuous match with Miss Wills at Cannes.

I consider the French open championships and Wimbledon more important than Riviera tennis, declared Suzanne. "I have now met and defeated Miss Wills and I am sure no one can say I am afraid to meet her. I will be pleased to face her under circumstances more appropriate for tennis than those under which our match last Tuesday was played. Miss Wills will have two other chances to meet me within six months. That should be enough. At any rate I would rather play on grass courts, for instance Wimbledon." Suzanne was informed of Sunday's victory of Miss Wills over Mrs. Satterthwaite, the English woman, who is conceded one of the best players at present along the Riviera. The French girl asked for the score, and when it was informed that it was 6-1, 6-1, said "that is very good indeed. That is about the same score as I beat Mrs. Satterthwaite."

Experts are of the opinion that the brand of tennis Miss Wills showed against Mrs. Satterthwaite Sunday was the last any woman player has shown. She played real championship tennis both at the net and on the baseline.

The gamblers who wagered 5 to 1 against Helen last Tuesday now are offering even money on her next match with Mlle. Lenglen. All of them feel that this is Helen's year and that the championship will cross to America.

"It is a good thing that Borotra and Lacoste have just shown that France can hold her own with American players," said an official of the Tennis Federation Sunday, referring to the victories of the Frenchmen in the covered court tennis matches in New York because I have grave fears of the women's championship slipping away from us."

One of Mlle. Lenglen's greatest regrets at not being able to play in the singles of the Nice club is that a meeting there with Miss Wills would have meant more than a million francs in gate receipts for the club, of which her father is the general secretary. The club was founded 40 years ago and has just spent a million francs to build a new clubhouse.

WISCONSIN WILL STAGE INDOOR RELAY CARNIVAL

Life Without Art Is Like A Meal That is Not Cooked.

It is raw and colorless. It is drab. It is hardly bearable. Life without art becomes a savage thing, an animal thing, stupid, bestial and primitive. The animal has no art, he has no mentality to understand it. Hence he turns to his bestial instincts for pleasure. The human has art; he has the mentality to understand it. But does he make use of this mentality?

Art is the greatest accomplishment of man. The poet has said, "The Seraphs share with thee Knowledge." But Art, O Man, is thine alone.

The new art booklet, published by The American Federation of Arts for free distribution among the readers of this newspaper, reveals a new world, a beautiful world to you. It teaches you to understand and appreciate art. It adds color and beauty to your life. Clip this coupon, enclose two cents in stamps for return postage, and we will mail the booklet to you.

CONSTRUCTION, LAB FIVES IN BIG GAME

Kimberly—The Construction team, piloted by Edward Williams, with four wins to their credit, and the Laboratory with the same number of wins and no defeats, will clash Monday in the Kimberly Punchedball league race to decide the first place team. The Office team with the addition of Jake Vanderveld Boom in the lineup, came through with their second consecutive win, when they defeated the Electric in a hotly contested game. The Construction took a real battle from the Lab, when they met for the first time Friday, the game being decided in the last inning when Harp, Construction's outfielder, knocked a home run. The Book Mill took an easy win from the Warehouse, when they ran up a 21 to 10 score.

WANTS COUNCIL TO GO SLOW ON ENLARGING CITY

Expect Planning Commission to Call Meeting on Plea for Annexation

A meeting of the city plan commission probably will be called this week for the purpose of examining the tentative plat of Lake Park reserve, south of Calumet-st. and located in Calumet-co, which the city has been asked to annex. F. R. Buchholz, Green Bay real estate promoter, is planning to plat the tract. Since the matter was first introduced at the last meeting of the commission, several objections have been voiced at the city hall by local residents, according to Mayor John Goodland, Jr.

Some of the objectors were local real estate dealers who expressed the opinion that there was as yet no need of annexing any property in Appleton at this time, especially not in the Fourth ward which now already has more than 1,000 vacant lots. Much of the territory in that ward is as yet unplatted and consists of small farms. All told, more than 600 acres of land is either unplatted or platted but unoccupied. Since present real estate prices are already on the down grade and since there are between 25 and 50 vacant homes in Appleton, according to one realtor and more than 100 in the opinion of another, there is hardly a need for development of property outside of the city, it was pointed out.

Mayor Goodland feels that the city should not act hastily in the matter, but also consider the liability it would immediately assume by annexing the property. Even if the promoter will install all the sewers and water mains, the city would still have to pay for the improvements on the intersections; likewise if the
